

GIVES THE WAR FACTS IN SPEECH

PRESIDENT WILSON ADDRESSES THE FEDERATION OF LABOR AND TELLS THEM TRUTHS ABOUT CONFLICT.

GERMANY STARTED WAR

Says History Will Bear Him Out in the Statement—Urges That Labor Co-operate With the Government in This Crisis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Auditorium, Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12.—President Wilson today delivered a message to the workmen of the United States in an address before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. His entrance into the hall was a signal for a tremendous outburst of cheers from the 6,000 persons gathered to hear him.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Commerce, in introducing Mr. Wilson, referred to him as "This Man of Destiny." Spokesman for Freedom," "Interpreter of the Aims and Spirit of Our Time," "Leader of Thoughts and Actions," Among the Nations of the Earth."

Mr. Wilson began by saying he es- tained a privilege and an honor to be present, as it seemed to him a time above all others for common council "a time for drawing the energies of the nation together." The president referred to the present as "a time more critical than the world has yet known."

"It was important in this moment of council to remind ourselves how the war came about," he said, and concluded: "This is the last decisive issue between the old principle of power and the new principle of freedom."

Started by Germany.

He said: "The war was started by Germany. Her authorities denied it, but I am willing to await the verdict of history on the statements I have just made."

"Germany had a place in the sun," the president continued. "Why was she not satisfied? What more does she want?"

The president described German expansion as a nation: "You have one answer to the question why she was not satisfied in her methods of competition," he said, "telling how the government of Germany has held hold on industries and controlled the competition. And it was not only industrial control of labor, but political control as well. The Berlin-Baden railroad program was designed to run a force of threat down the flanks of half a dozen other nations."

Germany's Aims.

The president alluded to Germany's map of Europe and said: "If she can keep that, her power can disturb the world, prodding the present authorities to control. Germany can control the world."

"Power cannot be used against free people when the power is controlled by the people," he added, a statement which the audience loudly applauded.

"Germany is determined the political power of the world shall belong to her. It is amazing to think that any group should be so informed as in certain circles of Russia to believe they can own, without danger from Germany, any man in the world, but did not send him to negotiate peace. Let us help him to determine how the war is to be won."

Taking up the labor question in the speech, the president said: "If we are true friends of freedom, we will see that the power and profit shall be kept at maximum. No one shall be allowed to stand in the way. The government won't stand in the way of doing this, but the spirit of the American people will."

"We must stand together night and day until the war is over," said the president, adding: "While we are fighting for freedom we must ensure the freedom of labor."

Tribute to Gompers.

"The horses that kick over, the traces must be put in the corral," he asserted.

The president paid the work of Samuel Gompers a tribute and the labor leaders' support of the government.

"No one has the right to stop the progress of labor until all methods of production have been exhausted and I do not speak to you alone. I have found labor in many instances more reasonable than the other side."

The president appealed to the government. He said that he "would like to see all the critics exonerated" and continued, "We must get down to business and everyone must do the right thing."

"Never show ourselves Americans going off in separate groups to talk of our selves, but by co-operating in a common enterprise which is to represent the spirit of the world from bondonage," he declared.

To Destroy Organizations.

The president denounced organizations which he said are trying to destroy the law. But in every case, he said, they should be dealt with.

"I am opposed to cutting the law into our own hands, much as I dislike the activities of these organizations. The man who takes the law into his hands is not the man to co-operate in any development of laws and institutions," the president asserted. "We must not only take the common council, but obey common council."

"Instrumentalities must be devised, we do not exist," he said, "to bring the proper amount of co-operation between labor and capital. The reason I came away from Washington is I got my gun down there. There are so many people in Washington who do not know what the people want. I have come away to find out."

Aks Ald.

The president concluded by saying:

OFFERS CHANCE TO RETURN TO FARMS

CLINTON NEWS

Liberty Farms Foundation Organized by Patriotic Men to Increase Food Production.

Do you want a farm in one of the most fertile districts of Wisconsin—a farm that is already financed, and that you can call your own? Do you want to stop working for someone else to become independent and raise food for Uncle Sam's armies?

The Liberty Farms Foundation of Madison, Wisconsin, has just opened an office in the Central Block and is prepared to give men farms to men in its vicinity who wish to farm for themselves. Here is the plan briefly:

A number of prominent patriotic men have purchased 50,000 acres of southern Sawyer county farm lands and have agreed to finance farms for responsible men who want to farm for themselves or for men who will purchase some land on a farm.

The farms are 40 and 50 acres and larger, and they are located in one of the richest regions of the country. The soil is a rich clay loam—no sand.

There are good roads, schools, social conditions, and two big railroads running through the heart of the district. The farms are but a few hours ride from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Superior.

It was at first decided to give these farms absolutely without charge to men who would farm them. But it was seen that many undesirables—mere fortune hunters, would take advantage of the offer, and the result the whole affair of the Liberty Farms Foundation.

$250 would be required of the holder before the farm would be turned over to him. This would keep out undesirables and would attract responsible men.

As soon as the settler takes possession of the farm, $200 of his money is immediately placed to his credit in the State Bank of Radisson where he can draw on it for use in emergencies.

The farms are completely financed.

Those farms are all appraised and given a per acre valuation above you go on them. They average about $25 per acre, although farm experts declare them to be as productive as land further south. Settlers are all that are needed. It is the last chapter in American homesteading.

Land values in Sawyer county are increasing by leaps and bounds. In a few years these farms will be worth double the value put upon them now.

It is then that you are given the opportunity to pay for your farm—at the original value placed on it when you settled it. After your farm is worth double its former value, after you have increased your small herd of cows sheep or pigs to large herds, after you have raised good crops of food products year after year, after you are an independent farmer, then you are to pay back for the value of your farm—the original value of about $25 per acre.

In three years the farms will have doubled in value, and a mortgage for half the value of a farm at that time will pay the original value for the settler in full.

This is the last chance that you will ever have to get a farm for your own by this method. It is only because wealthy, patriotic Americans—men who want to transform the now idle fields of fertile Wisconsin to fields of growing crops and healthy dairy cattle—have agreed to finance these farms and turn them over to you. These men know that the United States and her allies must have food—and more food—and that are giving you a chance to help save food for our armies. At the same time, it is your opportunity to become independent.

Much Pick Own Tracts.

No man is given a farm by the Liberty Farms Foundation unless he goes first to look at it and pick it out for himself. This fact alone proves the trustworthiness of the whole proposition.

The first thing to do if you want a farm for your own is to register with the Liberty Farms Foundation. You are then given an opportunity to go to the district to see the farms and to pick out one for yourself. It is a significant fact that not a single man who has gone to Sawyer county to inspect the farms offered by the Liberty Farms Foundation, has decided against taking a farm.

Charles Nichols, a practical farmer, formerly manager of the famous experiment farm of the Independent Harvester Company at Plano, Illinois, has accepted the position of district chairman for Rock county. At his office in room two, Central Block, he will tell you how you can secure one of these farms. Or telephone him 160 Bell and arrange an appointment.

On account of there being only a few more days in which men can go to see the farms, action now comes, and because the Liberty Farms Foundation is far behind in the new buildings for the settlers from other parts of the state, only ten men will be taken from this district.

More food this year is patriotism and the Liberty Farms Foundation will help you do your share and make you independent at the same time.

Albany, Nov. 10.—Some time ago the British club received a series of cards with the understanding that the losers must contribute in the winners.

The winners were about to think that the losers had forgotten their promise, when they received next little invitations in the form of a chrysanthemum.

Inviting them to come to the home of Mrs. A. H. Malbert on Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. Yellow and white was the color scheme. The dining room was prettily decorated with crocus, primroses and chrysanthemums.

A five-course dinner was served, each course in harmony with the color scheme.

Cards filled the evening.

TREND OF THE TIMES.

The trend of the times is towards conservation. We find it in every walk of life.

However we can not conserve too much in financial aid for material benefit to the hundreds of thousands of young men who have been called to the colors.

They must have their share of life, even though tied down by the red tape of army life.

The Y. M. C. A. and its army units bring this home to the average citizen, who has a relative in one of the camps or training camps either here or abroad. Read any letter from any boy now in khaki and notice if he does not mention the "Y" in there, not once, but often. It is his taste of home life. It is the place he can go for his recreation and enjoyment and entertainment. It is enjoyed by all. Religion is no barrier, as it is created and maintained for the black as well as the white, the foreigner as well as our own boys. The campaign is on to raise the funds to help this work along. It starts auspiciously and may it end with the total amount desired secured. It is another tax upon our loyalty, but those who can not fight must pay for those who can. It is the trend of the times to raise the standard of the army, and this "Y" movement is the greatest that has ever been undertaken. It must be supported by the public, hence the call at this time for funds.

These are the women who are not the real majority. You find women toiling over the tubs, whose son or husband is away fighting. You find the little family denying itself some daily necessity, so that the absent member who wears the khaki, can have a bit more for his personal use. You will find the careful housewife who makes the roust do for three days instead of two and prepares wonderful concoctions of simple edibles and at the same time is able to knit a pair of socks or so, start a sweater or a pair of wristlets and turn last year's dress so a Liberty bond can be bought.

These are the women who will help win the war in the end. Not the bridge player, whose sole ambition is the prize offered, or the woman who knits a lemon-colored sweater for herself, while the boys are freezing without the brown one her neighbor is hastening to finish.

Our soldiers are reported very brave, but in order to show their courage it is not necessary to go out between the trenches and see if those German shells will really explode.

It's all right to warn our soldiers of the dangers of Paris, but a good deal better to send some money to the Y. M. C. A. to help protect the soldiers from those dangers.

Some of the musicians can't play the Star Spangled Banner because it isn't artistic, but they find no fault with the quality of the pictures on our bank notes.

The Italian infantry, artillery and cavalry have suffered a terrible defeat, but at least accounts of the sturdy men were still manfully holding their ground.

One of the principal troubles with this war is that the Germans know what is going on in our country rather more thoroughly than we do ourselves.

All the Germans now have to do on the Russian front is to send a night watchman around once in twenty-four hours to see if the Russians are still there.

Apples going to waste in many places, but the boys can use them even when rotten to plug at their neighbors' barns and woodsheds.

The people who complain that no progress is being made in the war are usually the ones who aren't themselves co-operating in any way.

After looking over a modern school text book, it is amazing what ingenuity is shown in tormenting the poor harassed kids.

The patrons of the soda fountains must have their sugar, whether the soldiers in the trenches get any for their coffee or not.

Appeal for Aid.
Black River Falls, Nov. 10.—An appeal for immediate assistance to end the coal shortage has been sent to State Fuel Agent W. N. Fitzgerald at Madison. The city is without coal. Fuel ordered last July by dealers has not been delivered and when dealers called for statements they received notices that their contracts for consignments had been cancelled. The situation here is serious.

WAR AND WOMEN.

We are at war. Every nerve and every energy of this vast federal government is destined to the ultimate success of the nation of fighting men. Men of the nation on the battle front, training for war service, waiting their call to the colors, or engaged in some occupation that is giving aid and material benefit to those who are doing "their bit." Liberty bonds. Red Cross subscriptions and now the army Y. M. C. A. and the other various funds being raised for our fighting men tax them to the limit with the increased federal taxes as well.

Taking their place side by side with the men are thousands of loyal women. Women who seek to conserve the resources of the nation, who knit, who make surgical dressings, that our soldiers may be warm and comfortable and properly cared for when wounded or sick. These women are doing their "bit" and doing it cheerfully. They are playing just as important a part in this war as are the men. But there are others.

In a recent editorial the Chicago Tribune calls attention to this class language that is unmistakable and fits right home to any community if this readers but stop and look about them. "For every hundred devoted women who toil without recompense, day and night, there are a thousand slackers who live but for themselves and the moment's pleasure," says the Tribune. "For the dozen women making surgical dressings there are three hundred in the next room playing bridge for silk cushions and yokes of silver. Because for the two who knit sweaters for our boys "over there" we see twenty who have knitted for Sister Sue, grandmother, baby and themselves."

These are the words of arraignment and how true they are. Look at the women with the elaborate knitting bags, who carry them with great relish on their arms and then see them pull out some dainty baby blue or skeleton pink contraption they are knitting for a Christmas present or for their own use. Meanwhile our soldier boys suffer for lack of comforts such as sweaters, wristlets and warm socks.

Look over the programs of the various "society literary clubs" and see the subjects they are absorbing by the easiest method of an afternoon gathering, a college instructor to lecture and papers culled from an encyclopedia. Is it the "Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire," the pyramids of Egypt, the literature of Shakespeare? day, or something actually practical as how to conserve food and food supplies, how to handle the cheaper cuts of meats with the same results as the more expensive? Is it how to make dresses, how to roll surgical dressings, to knit sweaters and socks? Look at the program and see for yourself.

You will find card clubs holding their usual meetings when matters of civic importance are being discussed at public meetings. You will discover women who wish to discuss matters germane to the subject at meetings called for certain purposes. You will discover elaborate ceremonies being planned, with costly gowns and much contraptions, for the "parade," and all the while our "Boys" in the Army wait expectantly for those warm sweaters and the hungry people of the countries swept by war's devastation for the surplus of America.

Thank the Lord these women are not the real majority. You find women toiling over the tubs, whose son or husband is away fighting. You find the little family denying itself some daily necessity, so that the absent member who wears the khaki, can have a bit more for his personal use. You will find the careful housewife who makes the roust do for three days instead of two and prepares wonderful concoctions of simple edibles and at the same time is able to knit a pair of socks or so, start a sweater or a pair of wristlets and turn last year's dress so a Liberty bond can be bought.

HOW GIANT BATTLEPLANES WILL FLY ACROSS ATLANTIC

Great battleplanes will soon cross the Atlantic, the greatestfeat of the air yet attempted. The Italian Caproni triplanes are urged by the Italian aerial commission to be first tried, but a hydro-airplane, American made and equipped with the new Liberty motor, will likely be given the first choice. The planes will be able to descend to the water's surface if necessary and relief boats will be distributed at intervals along the routes. The descent from Newfoundland via the Azores and Portugal to England is regarded as the more practicable.

WINTER.
We have some to our winter and now The old man with his frost on his brow And the breath that is bitterly cold Gives signs that the year's growing old.

The work of the harvest is done, And the warmth of the mid-summer sun Has passed on to far tropical fields, Leaving us to the fate of our yields;

For the days of our winter shall be to the last.

But the fruit of the days of the summer is passed.

Here are some of the others:

Thumb prints on dinner plates,

Wire disengaged in snow,

Suspension bridges in the morn,

Water in the bathroom,

Sippory cake of soap on the floor,

Pale pink coffee,

No pearl shirt staid in sight,

False teeth left on dining room table,

Razor used to open can of tomatoes,

Canned cherries that are not pitted,

Eaten rattle in bowl of creamed potatoes,

Best derby hat used to plug up broken window.

No time now to plant or to sow,

All life is asleep beneath the snow,

The trees in the orchard are bare,

And old winter is reveling there.

Time was on the now frozen soil

Men went bravely forth to their toil

And they stood in the heat of the sun

For their joys when the labor was done;

For the winter that comes shall be dreary or good.

To the measure of toil that man gave when he could.

No time now to plant or to sow,

When my beard shall be white as the snow,

And my hands shall no longer be fine

For the tasks of the day that are mine.

The field of my toil shall be bare,

And vain I shall wonder back there.

When my chance of a harvest has fled,

And the strength of my days will have sped.

Then my winter of age shall be fine or be sad

As I've idled or toiled with the youth I have had.

Move to amend" by inserting the word "neo-bonchead."

THE COST OF RADIUM HAS BEEN REDUCED $80,000 A GRAM. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY IN A SUPPLY FOR THE WINTER.

POLOCULAR ART.

Yet no less an authority than Carl N. Wurts, president of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, gave the following definition:

"These pictures are based on a multiplicity of perspectives," continues Mr. Wurts. "Polyocularism shows a picture as it might appear to man with many eyes. Polyocular art differs from cubism and futurism, although the general effect may appear the same to the layman."

All of which is as clear as a cup of boarding house coffee.

MILD FOOTBALL.

The editor has been forth that football should not be mild and no rough work will be allowed.

As we understand the revival rules, the following restrictions are made:

When one player gets another player's ear in his mouth during a scrimmage he is not supposed to bite it off, as formerly but is allowed only to chew it until it has lost all semblance to its former self.

When one player gets the heel of his shoe into the mouth of an opposing player he is not allowed to knock out more than seven teeth at one time. If the same situation develops the second time in the same game, he is allowed to knock out seven more.

When the situation is desperate opposing players are not allowed to use pickaxes on each other.

An occasional brick laid in this fashion will not be noticed, but all such deadly weapons as picks, sledgehammers and baseball bats are tabooed.

When seven men pile onto one and break one of his legs, the seven shall rise and allow the man to be carried away to the hospital. Under no circumstances shall they be allowed to break another leg.

ENTERTAINMENT AT Y. M. C. A. ENJOYED BY MEMBERS OF CO. C

Camp Grant, Nov. 10.—Another one of the weekly entertainments was held in the seventh avenue Y. M. C. A. last evening by the 331st Machine Gun Battalion. The entertainment was one of the best that has ever given by the harridans here and was highly appreciated by the several hundred men that attended.

Two new acts were added to the program and both were features in themselves. There is plenty of talent in the 331st Machine Gun Battalion and new talent is being discovered each week.

The program opened last evening with a selection "Wake Up America" by the Battalion orchestra under the direction of Sergeant Dietz. The orchestra next rendered the "Gee-e-e-wah" and the way the men encoraged after this number is ample proof that the men appreciate other music than me.

Corporal Paul Kvale, one of the new men to appear on the program, rendered a solo "The Floating Hour" and the men were wild over the soloist and Kvale was forced to repeat it twice in which he sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile." By the reception that Kvale received last evening assures him a permanent place on the programs of the future.

Another surprise of the evening was the club dancing of Private Thomas Pfeifer of Co. C. Although urged several times, this was the initial appearance of Farrell before the members of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion and the men had a full evening.

Private Cyrus Montgomery is still looking for the company's bridle pup that was lost Sunday evening. This dog had only been in the barracks a few hours and Montgomery can't figure out how the animal got loose.

Ten English officers and privates have arrived at Camp Grant to assist in instructing the officers of his company in the art of modern warfare. The men were the cause of many arguments between the men of Co. C. and the 331st Machine Gun Battalion.

Officers and men of Co. C. are trying to best the other man in being able to tell at a glance the different rank of our English soldiers. When first seen by the men of Co. C. the majority of the fellows did not even know they belonged to the British Army.

Officers and men of Co. C. and the 331st Machine Gun Battalion are learning to sing. Singing Director Arthur Neale is the one who has taken this most difficult task up and although many of the men of the company are at the present time very poor singers, they are going after the singing with just as much "pizz" as they have in their thumbs. Captain R. Foot claims that a singing army cannot be defeated and the companies that can sing and will sing are going to be victorious.

Suply Sergeant Gallagher has been very busy showing his comrades a new pillow he received from "some-where in Indiana" and he will not be satisfied until every man in the battalion has had a glimpse of it. Gallagher claims it is the finest pillow in Camp Grant and after taking a good look at it the writer heartily agrees with him.

Private Ed. McDonough was discovered in the mess hall after a late hour last evening practicing an old "Virginia Reel." When questioned as to his strange behavior McDonough claimed that he expected to go to another dance in Rockford within the near future and he wanted to be prepared.

Sergeant David J. Cunningham came to the front last evening in the role of "Sgt. for one of the fighters" and although Dave did all he could to assist his man, he was forced to admit that his fighter was beaten.

Private Jobe of Beloit amuses the men quite frequently with cartoons of different subjects, and when it comes to pushing a pen, why Jobe is "Johnny on the Spot." His latest portrait, for which Private Thomas Farrell posed, made a decided hit with the men.

Roland Hanaman of Beloit is running short on jell and the men are all hoping that his larder is soon replenished, because Hanaman has a big heart and the men all like his raspberry jell.

Private Wayne Munger of Beloit is also developing into a fine hundred player and is now participating when Screeners, Scouting, Soldier or Cunningham are due to be present.

Corporal John Daley states that the non-com school gives him no chance to get lonesome, because all his spare moments are taken up with study. He states that the school is getting better and harder every day.

Private Maxson of Milton received a large photograph yesterday and he is afraid that all the men of the company wouldn't get a chance to see it. He left home on his bunk during the afternoon and he is now certain that every man had his hands on it at least once.

Private McMurtry of Beloit, has been chosen as official Victoria player and one can find Mac playing the "Vic" any time during the day. He claims he not only enjoys the music himself, but he wants his comrades to be happy.

Sergeant Peter Olfard of Milton is a strong booster for his home town and when one starts arguing with him about the city his main argument is their salute. The officers will be stationed in a separate

The men of the company were very much surprised last Tuesday when three French soldiers dressed in a different garb than their own. The men were told that they were French officers who have been assigned to Camp Grant as specialists in modern warfare. The French officers are dressed in very nice uniforms and the only difference the men of Co. C. noticed was their salute. The officers will be stationed in a separate division headquarters. The officers assigned to this cantonment are Captain R. Payne, infantry; Lieutenant G. Ledu, heavy artillery; Lieutenant G. Bordonneau, cavalry; Lieutenant L. Druart, engineer; Sergeant Hergue, infantry; Sergeants G. Parmentier, Felix Vincent, Bourcet, and Tutelet.

If work and hard study has anything to do with it, D. J. Cunningham of Janesville is going to be one of the successful candidates for the reserve training school to start soon at this camp. Sergeant Cunningham got a stand on his comrades by hard study long before the announcement was made, and at the present time one can find Dave hard at work every evening.

Private James Quinn is easily the happiest man in the camp and the men have been trying for some time to find out the reason that causes Jim to be smiling from the early morning until his retire in the evening.

Some of the men of the company went to Rockford last evening to attend dances or theatres. It was the second fine night the men have had in three weeks and they are making good use of the weather.

Private Cyrus Montgomery is still looking for the company's bridle pup that was lost Sunday evening. This dog had only been in the barracks a few hours and Montgomery can't figure out how the animal got loose.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greenley are to appear together in several approaching World-Pictures, including "The Burglar," "The God-for-Giving," "The Ladder of Fame," etc. This is in pursuance of Mr. Greenley's policy of keeping certain of his principal players in association through a long series of production, so that when any given star is announced in a new play the public will know the identity of his or her principal companions in the cast.

HOMELY GIRL NOW COMES INTO OWN

The ugly girl may be shamed aside for her more handsome sister in every way, but according to Donald Mackenzie, Pathé director, there is no justice done her on the screen.

"The ugly girl comes into her own," says MacKenzie, "if she is content to do ugly girl parts. However, if she insists on being the heroine, with jealous suitors fighting for her hand, then she must be ugly for the audience to see the realism in the situation like that."

She must learn to know that her assets are a ridiculous walk, thin hair and a squint in the eye, and avail herself of every opportunity to explain these personal defects as if they were just so many personal charms.

"It is the ugly girl who comes to the studio with the illusion that make-up will convert her into the sort of femininity from which screen beauties are made, for whom there is no hope."

Florence Reed, who is acting in the Rap production, "The Struggle Everlasting," is enraged at being outshone by the families of the eight New York men who went down on the Antilles to meet an emergency that may exist until the war department establishes the status in each case.

Florence Curtis has joined Vitagraph as leading woman in comedy pictures. She is the sprightly little dancer who was with the Cobay revue last season. Vitagraph apparently plans to vie with Mack Sennett and Wm. Fox in building up a champion beauty squad.

Frieda Hempel, singer, now starring her fifth season with the Metropolitan Opera company, says she soon may be acting for the dreadful movies. She is inspired by the success of Geraldine Farrar, and the impending debut of Mary Garden in a movie "Thais."

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!
BUT WHAT ABOUT?

Musical Comedy at Myers Theatre Last Evening Not At All As Good As It Might Have Been.

A few laughs—a very few—some very poor singing, jokes that are new once, antiquated scenes and a chorus made up of the which heralded "Stop! Look! Listen!" which was presented at the Myers theatre Sunday night.

Aside from the unusually clever dancing specialties of Alton and Allen it is doubtful if anyone would have stopped long enough to look and listen.

The musical numbers would have been delightful if they had been any one to relish them properly. The book has excellent possibilities, but the company had no one in the principal roles who could do it justice.

It seems too bad that producers will send out this kind of an attraction, and theatre-goers cannot be blamed when they refuse to patronize them at a dollar and a half top price.

Another Burglar Hunt.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Fond du Lac, Nov. 12.—Within twelve hours after the police had announced that they had arrested the men responsible for a series of burglaries here, within the past two weeks, burglar alarms were set off and secured goods valued at $20.00. As a result, another burglar hunt is on.

NEENAH HIGH SCHOOL

FOND DU LAC, Nov. 12.—Within twelve hours after the police had announced that they had arrested the men responsible for a series of burglaries here, within the past two weeks, burglar alarms were set off and secured goods valued at $20.00. As a result, another burglar hunt is on.

Private Geo. Disrupe of Blanchardville, Wis., has been transferred from Co. D, 331st Machine Gun Battalion, to the remount station of Camp Grant. Private Disrupe will now have charge of taking care of the horses and mules. Private Paulson and Albee from Albany, Wis., have also been transferred to the remount station.

Corporal Wilber of Monroe, Wis., a member of Co. D, who is short and stout, has been the target of great deal of joshing from his comrades for the past week. The men claim that Corporal Wilber takes his sound out for drilling so he is continually telling them to hold. Wilber claims the reason for this is that the men, who are all six footers, walk right away from him and the only way he can catch up to them is to have them hold.

Private Leo Gruber, another member of Co. D, 331st Machine Gun Battalion, who claims Monticello as his home, has furnished the men of the company with several good cheese bunches within the past two weeks. Leo claims that the people in his town have a collection box in one of the more prominent stores of the place and that the people deposit money and what the men need to purchase cheese for the men in the camp. The men of the other companies are hoping that someone in some of the other cities will take up this idea.

Private Holgeson of Co. D, is proving to be the most popular man in the company owing to the fact that he is the only one that can round out ragtime on the new piano fast enough for the men. He is kept busy all evening and claims that he hasn't even been given a chance to learn the latest pieces as the men want him at the piano all the time.

Private McMurtry of Beloit, has been chosen as official Victoria player and one can find Mac playing the "Vic" any time during the day. He claims he not only enjoys the music himself, but he wants his comrades to be happy.

ARREST SHERIFFS FOR HALTING POLISH MEETING

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—Warrants were issued Saturday by District Attorney Zabel for the arrest of three deputy sheriffs and a federal agent charged with stopping a meeting of the Polish branch of the People's Council, Friday night.

The meeting was addressed by W. D. Dinoski, editor of a Pittsburgh paper, printed in the Polish language. It is alleged that Dinoski said this country is just as bad as Russia ever was, and that soon there would take place in the United States just what is taking place in Russia today.

LOCAL MAN WILL SPEAK AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Pea Packers' association will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in this city. The meeting is of special importance this year because of the government's licensing of cannery goods manufacturers. Among the speakers will be Prof. W. W. Web of the University of Wisconsin, James Anderson of Morgan, Utah, F. H. Bednarz of Janesville and Rev. Alexander Thompson of New York City. The latter is connected with the national food administration.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a young man for two months. I love him very much, and I am sure he loves me. Should he have never told me so? If you think it would be right for me to tell him all yes, knowing that I can never marry him?

(2) I have nothing in the world against him, but my parents would object to my marrying him. What shall I do?

Should I keep on going with him; I cannot give him up? (3) It is a girl of seventeen too old to wear her hair curled down.

"CURLY."

(1) If he says he loves you and he would be all right for you to tell him that you do. You would not have to say anything about being able to marry him unless he proposed marriage to you.

(2) Your parents may have very good reasons for objecting if they have it their duty to tell you what those reasons are. In most cases the parents are right, but not always, and it both you and the man are old enough, say twenty-four and twenty-eight, and are able to support yourselves no one would have the right to prevent you from marrying.

(3) Nothing has happened so far to cause you to give up. If you know he expects you to marry him, and you do not, it would be only fair to him to tell him so when he poses to you. Even then he may wish to keep on going with you and in that case it would be all right.

MRS. J. M. (1) You may simply say, "Thank you."

(2) The same answer will do in this case also; say, "Thank you. I will."

Letters of Two Women

By Zoe Beckley

From May in Kansas, to Kate, in New York.

KERRYVILLE,

Monday Morning.

Kate Dearie:

Listen: There is going to be a baby!

What do you think of that for news? So please stop writing about yourself for a while and write about ME. I feel that I am the most important person in the world. And if it ever happens to you, you'll feel the same way.

It's such a common event, you will argue. My washerwoman can have a baby!

True, she probably can. Very frequently does (alas). But there is something about the realization when it comes to one's self that makes the event take on a mystical, miraculous quality.

Why, even Curtis and his family feel that I am suddenly a person of wealth and distinction. That's the best part of it! Kitie; it has swept away the storm clouds. Differences have been adjusted, quite fairly, I am happy again. Curtis is as poor as if he had been elected president of the United States. Why are men always proud of approaching parenthood and women just happy?

Picture me, dear, knee deep in yards and yards of nainsook persian lawn, dimity, scalloped flannel and innumerable laces, manufacturing daily (with these hands of mine that you say "should never be taken off the piano keys") the most adorable garments for the most adorable child to be-and wondering at odd moments whether I am not just nodding over my shorthair notebook and listening for Kirby's buzzer!

Thine ever,

MAY.

The Superior Attitude of the Ultra Cautious.

"But you wouldn't be in colusion," I pointed out.

I saw that superior smile with which the ultra cautious view the ignorance of people who aren't forever hedging themselves in with fears. How could I prove that?" he asked triumphantly.

I couldn't prove he couldn't prove it, so we adjourned the discussion.

Later I talked with the treasurer of a bank about the matter of cheques raising, asking him what the chances were. "Never," while he had been here, he said, "have I had a raised check. I should say one chance in a million."

EVERDAY ETIQUETTE

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

(Miss Hoyt will answer in this paper all questions on manners of etiquette addressed to her, in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Would you kindly advise me of what the crossroads of girl in moderate circumstances must be, in regards to bed linens, table cloths, napkins, towels, gowns, house dresses, etc?

(2) Can you give me the name of a firm that has envelopes addressed by the hundred? SUBSCRIPTIONS.

(3) It depends entirely on how much money you have to spend on it. You should be only as extensive as you can afford, and it should contain as much linen, etc., as you wish to start married life with.

(4) If you mean where you can purchase envelopes by the hundred with your name and address printed on them, printing office can supply you. If you wish to have them addressed by the post office, you can find out by asking some of the business departments of downtown stores. Often the drygoods stores and manufacturers have lots of this work to do and would be glad to have it done without putting their regular help on it. Firms which send up monthly statements often wish them addressed by someone and will pay for it by the hundred.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My little boy's hands are all red and sore looking and they crack open in star shapes on the knuckles. Do you know what I can do for this? I have tried vaseline and it does not help.

MOTHER.

Make a hand lotion of the following composition: Two ounces of bay rum, one ounce of glycerine and twenty drops of carbolic acid. Add enough perfume to kill the odor of the carbolic acid.

There are many easy-going souls who imagine that the frequent or habitual taking of physic is all that is really necessary to prevent or overcome auto-intoxication. They are done without physiotherapy. They are done by the individual himself, in the shape of form life in some focus of infection somewhere in the body (as in diseased tonsils, for example); or it may be a poison deliberately introduced by alcohol, tobacco or some harmful drug which some persons have assumed.

When calling, should a member of the family open the door, the caller does not present her card, but asks for the person she wishes to see. She may lay her card on a table when withdrawing.

Bring your notes of thanks should be sent in as soon as possible after the gifts arrive. If a gift is sent by a married couple, the note should be sent to the wife, although the husband should be mentioned. This would be a proper formality: "Dear Mrs. Brown, I wish to thank you and Mr. Brown most heartily for the lovely vase which has just arrived. It is one of the most beautiful things I have ever seen and shall always regard it as one of my dearest possessions. Hoping to see you on my wedding day. I am very sincerely yours," etc.

In case the note is not written until after the wedding, the bridegroom should be mentioned also: "Dear Mr. Brown, I wish to thank you and Mr. Brown for the exquisite vase which you sent me for my wedding gift. It is one of the loveliest things I possess. I hope it will bring you many happy years."

ANSWER.—1. Excessive bathing irritates the skin by toxins of auto-intoxication from excessive sweating and insufficient exercise, various skin diseases, and the nervous habit of sleep.

2. Sleep is of no consequence.

3. The nose is meant to breathe through.

Some careless passenger might drop a nickel down the slot.

4. The Tonic Season.

Is olive oil beneficial as tonic? If so, what is the proper dose?

ANSWER.—No. Olive oil is a food rather inferior to an equal weight of butter.

5. The Saleratus Habit.

Is the frequent taking of saleratus or baking soda harmful in any way?

A friend told me it thins the blood and causes cancer. I take it to relieve gas and sour stomach. (Mrs. P.)

ANSWER.—It is harmful, but it does not affect the blood and it doesn't cause cancer. It creates gas in the stomach, and so the belching of gas is a symptom. A dose of soda is not significant.

Instead of resorting to soda so much and have it corrected by proper treatment? Perhaps intelligent regulation of your diet would give you immediate relief.

6. To make creamy:

add to meat and rice, with salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly; make into balls the size of walnuts, drop into boiling water or soup stock of any kind and cook forty minutes. A can of tomato soup diluted and a green pepper added makes a tasty meal. This will serve six people.

Pumpkin Pie.—For three pies, use one quart of milk, three cups boiled and strained pumpkin, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup molasses, yolks and whites of three eggs beaten separately, a little salt and one tablespoon each of ginger and cinnamon. Beat and, bake with an undercrust.

7. To clean fine lace:

Spread the lace out on paper, cover it with calcined magnesia, place another paper over it and put away between the leaves of a heavy book for two or three days. Shake off powder and the lace will be fresh and clean as new.

8. Daily Thought.

Sweet mercy is mobility's true badge.—Shakespeare.

POSSIBLE MENUS FOR A MEATLESS TUESDAY

Wisconsin products figure rather prominently in the week's wheatless and meatless menus. The Badger state's supply of the best substitutes for these American staples is well ahead of the average.

On Meatless Day observe "cream of rye," "top milk" and "cheese sauce"—three of the standard substitutes sought because of their food value. Wisconsin is the natural home of all the best of these.

For dinner on Meatless Day both the fried lake trout and the scalloped potatoes can be welcomed as distinctly native dishes. Even the tomato and six bottles restored my mouth so I do all my housework. Including washing. Vinol is the best medicine I ever used." Alice Record, 427 So.

Rice Muffins—2 1/2 cups flour, 2/3 cup cooked rice, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted fat, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Mix and sift flour, sugar, salt, and baking powder; add 1/2 cup milk, beat well, then add rice, and beat thoroughly, then add fat. Bake in well-greased muffin pan.

Rice Croquettes—1/2 cups cooked rice, 1 cup thick cream sauce, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup milk, dried bread crumbs.

Cream Scones—2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup melted butter, 1/2 cup baking powder, 1/2 cup cream.

Combine as for cream sauce. Add cooked rice to cream sauce. Season and form into croquettes. Dip into beaten egg to which one tablespoonful of milk has been added. Roll in crumbs and place in well-greased dripping pan. Brush croquettes with melted fat and brown in oven.

Soup—1/2 cup flour, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 cups milk, 1/2 cup cheese (cut in very small pieces).

Combine first five ingredients as for white sauce, add cheese and cook over fire until melted, stirring constantly.

Barley Scones—1 cup barley flour, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 1/2 teaspoons fat, 1/2 cup sour milk, 1/2 teaspoon soda.

Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together and work in fat. Dissolve soda in a little cold water and add the sour milk. Combine flour mixture and sour milk to a soft dough. Turn out on well-floured board, knead slightly, roll to 1/4 inch thickness, cut in diamond shaped pieces and bake in oven.

The Metabolic Wash

When an individual is intoxicated, flesh foods for his diet, particularly including sufficient undenatured cereals, such as whole wheat, brown rice (unpolished rice) and whole corn meal.

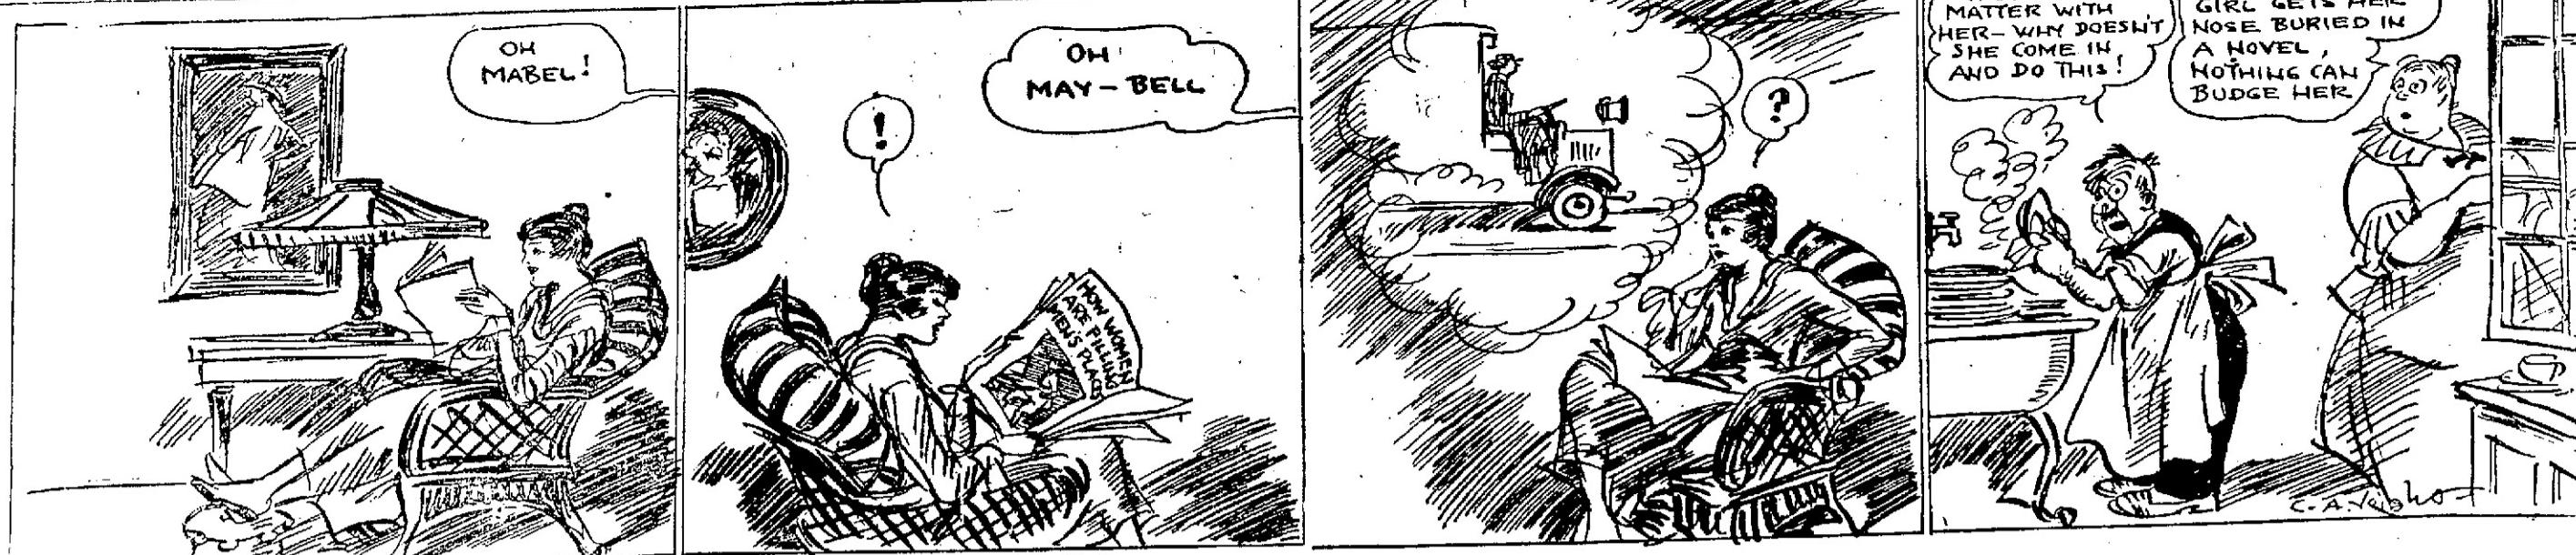

Whether the diet is made largely or only partly vegetarian, whether all fish and meat is eliminated or all but fish and milk products, the effect is what might be properly termed a metabolic bath. The body cells, being bathed with the poisoned blood, are freed of auto-intoxication, and washed by pectoral lymph. And this is the secret of the prevention of auto-intoxication.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Matter of Form

1. What is the reason for the little urchins people have? 2. What is the proper attitude for sleeping? 3. Is there any reason why one should not lie on the back? 4. Is it good form—I mean physically speaking—for a person to sleep with the mouth open, say in a street car? (H. W.)

ANSWER.—1. Excessive bathing irritates the skin by toxins of auto-intoxication from excessive sweating and insufficient exercise, various skin diseases, and the nervous habit of sleep.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—if You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color, 10 and 25c per box. All druggists.

King of the Khyber Rifles

A Romance of Adventure
By TALBOT MUNDY

(Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company)

He followed the Ranger, and he was no sooner into the shadow of the door than the coachman lashed the horses and the carriage swung out of view.

"This way," said the Ranger over his shoulder. "Come!"

CHAPTER IV.

It was a dusky smelling entrance, so dark that to see was scarcely possible after the hot glare outside. Dimly King made out Rewa Gunga mounting stairs to the left and followed him. When he guessed himself two stories at least above road level, there was a sudden blaze of reflected light and he blinked at more mirrors than he could count. Curtains were reflected in each mirror, and little glowing lamps, so curiously arranged that it was not possible to guess which were real and which were not. King stood still.

Then suddenly, as if she had done it a thousand times before and surprised a thousand people, a little nut-brown maid parted the middle pair of curtains and said "Salam!" smiling with teeth that were as white as porcelain. King looked scarcely interested and not at all disturbed.

Rewa Gunga hurried past him, thrusting the little maid aside, and led the way. King followed him into a long room, whose walls were hung with richer silks than any he remembered to have seen. In a great wide window to one side some twenty women began at once to make flute music. Silken punkahs swung from chains, wafting back and forth cloud of sandalwood smoke that veiled the whole scene in mysterious, scented mist.

"Be welcome!" laughed Rewa Gunga; "I am to do the honors, since she is not here. Be seated, sahib."

King chose a divan at the room's farthest end, near tall curtains that led into rooms beyond. He turned his back toward the reason for his choice.

On a little ivory-inlaid ebony table about ten feet away lay a knife, that was almost the exact duplicate of the one inside his shirt. He could sense hushed expectancy on every side—could feel the eyes of many women fixed on him—and began to draw on his guard as a fighting man draws on armor. There and then he deliberately set himself to resist mesmerism, which is the East's chief weapon.

Rewa Gunga, perfectly at home, sprawled leisurely along a cushioned couch with a grace that the West has not learned yet; but King did not make the mistake of trusting him any better for his easy manners, and his eyes sought swiftly for some unrhymed, unplanned thing on which to rest, that he might save himself by a sort of mental leverage.

Glancing along the wall that faced the big window, he noticed for the first time huge Afriti, who sat on a stool and leaned back against the silk curtains, with arms folded.

"Who is that man?" he asked.

"He? Oh, he is a savage—just a big savage," said Rewa Gunga, looking vaguely annoyed.

"Why is he here?"

He did not dare let go of this chance issue. He knew that Rewa Gunga wished him to talk of Yasmin and to ask questions about her, and that if he succumbed to that temptation all his self-control would be curiously sapped away from him until his secrets, and his very senses, belonged to some one else.

"What is he doing here?" he insisted.

"He? Oh, he does nothing. He waits," purred the Ranger. "He is to be your body-servant on your journey to the North. He is nothing—nobody at all; —except that he is to be trusted utterly because he loves Yasmin. He is obedient! A big obedient fool! Let him be!"

"No," said King. "If he's to be my man I'll speak to him!"

He felt himself winning. Already the spell of the room was lifting, and he no longer felt the cloud of sandalwood like a veil across his brain.

"Won't you tell him to come here to me?"

Rewa Gunga laughed, resting his silk turban against the wall hangings and clasping both hands about his knee. It was as a man might laugh who has been touched in a bout with folly.

"Oh!—Ismail!" he called, with a voice like a bell, that made King stare.

The Afriti seemed to come out of a deep sleep and looked bewildered, rubbing his eyes and feeling whether his turban was on straight. He combed his beard with nervous fingers as he gazed about him and caught Rewa Gunga's eye. Then he sprang to his feet.

"Come!" ordered Rewa Gunga. The man obeyed.

"Did you see?" Rewa Gunga chuckled. "He rose from his place like a buffalo, rump first and then shoulder after shoulder! Such men are safe! Such men have no guile beyond what will help them to obey! Such men think too slowly to invent deceit for its own sake!"

The Afriti came and towered above them, standing with gnarled hands knotted into clubs.

"What is thy name?" King asked him.

"Ismail!" he boomed.

"Thon art to be my servant?"

"Aye! So said she. I am her man. I obey!"

"When did she say so?" King asked him blandly. The hillman stroked his great beard and stood considering the question. King entered a shrewd suspect the knife away:

"May I have a sheet of paper?" he asked, for he knew that another fight for his self-command was due.

Rewa Gunga gave an order, and a maid brought scented paper on a silver tray. He drew out his own fountain pen, and since his one object was to give his brain employment, he wrote down a list of the names he had memored in the train on the journey from Peshawur, not thinking of a use for the list until he had finished. Then, though, a real use occurred to him.

While he began to write more than a dozen dancing women swept into the room from behind the silk hangings in a concerted movement that was all the slumberous grace. Woodwind music called to them from the great deep window. They began to chant, still dreamily, and with the chant the dance began, in and out, round and round, lazily, ever so lazily, wreathed in buoyant gossamer that was scarcely more solid than the sandalwood snake they wafted into rings.

King watched them and listened to their chant until he began to recognize the strain on the eye muscles that precedes the mesmeric spell. Then he wrote and read what he had written and wrote again.

Dinner Stories

There was a wealthy old gentleman in Washington who was always given his young nephew to understand that he would be his heir. Not long ago the old gentleman had an attack of illness, and for a while it looked as if he were all up with him. When a turn came for the better he said to his physician:

"So, doctor, you think there is hope for me?"

"Not only that," said the doctor, "but I can assure you that you are out of danger."

"Thank you," said the old gentleman, "but I wish you would inform my nephew, but please, break the news to him gently."

He thought again, then "Yesterday," he said.

"Why did you wait before you answered?"

The Afriti's eyes furtively sought Rewa Gunga's and found no aid there. Watching the Ranger less furtively, but even less obviously, King was aware that his eyes were nearly closed, as if they were not interested. The fingers that clasped his knee drummed in it indifferently, seeing which King allowed himself to smile.

"Never mind," he told Ismail. "It is no matter. It is ever well to think twice before speaking once, for thus mistakes die stillborn. Only the monkey-folk thrive on quick answers—is it not so? Thou art a man of many inches—of thew and sinew—he, but thou art a man! If the heart within those great ribs of thine is true as thin arms are strong I shall be fortunate to have thee for a servant!"

"Aye!" said the Afriti. "But what are words? She has said I am thy servant, and to hear her is to obey!"

"Then, take me a telegram!" said King.

He began to write at once on a half-sheet of paper that he tore from a letter he had in his pocket, transposing into cypher as he went along.

Yasmin had gone North. Is there any reason why you and why I should not follow her at once?

He addressed it in plain English to his friend the general at Peshawur, and handed it to Ismail, directing him carefully to a government office where the cypher signature would be recognized and the telegram given precedence.

Ismail stalked off with it, striding like Moses down from Sinai—hook-nose hawk-eye-flowing beard—dignity and all, and King settled down to guard himself against the next attempt on his sovereign self-command.

Now he chose to notice the knife on the ebony table as if he had not seen it before. He got up and reached for it and brought it back, turning it over and over in his hand.

"A strange knife," he said.

"Yes—from Khinjan," said Rewa Gunga, and King eyed him as one wolf eyes another.

"What makes you say it is from Khinjan?"

"She brought it from Khinjan herself! There is another knife that matches it, but that is not here. That bracelet you now wear, sahib, is from Khinjan caves too! She has the secret of the caves!"

"I have heard that the 'Heart of the Hills' is there," King answered. "Is the 'Heart of the Hills' a treasure house?"

Rewa Gunga laughed.

"Ask her, sahib! Perhaps she will tell you! Perhaps she will let you see! Who knows? She is a woman of resource and unexpectedness—let her women dance for you a while!"

King nodded. Then he got up and laid the knife back on the little table.

A minute or so later he noticed that at a sign from Rewa Gunga a woman left the great window place and spirited company, will leave to work for the company at Madison and that another man is to take charge of the local

This building will be roofed with Certain-teed Roofing.

The roof is the last to go on your building; but the selection of an efficient and economical roof is of first importance. If you will use on your building you will get the most efficient roof, and will cut down the cost of the roof materially.

Certain-teed

CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay, and it costs practically nothing to maintain. It is weathertight, fire retardant, clean, sanitary, and gives the utmost roofing service over a period of years. CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

The quality and merit of CERTAIN-TEED have made it the preferable type of roofing for office buildings, hotels, factories, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings, etc. If you are building it will be to your interest to investigate CERTAIN-TEED.

There are many roll roofs, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. As it costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED Roof than it does to lay a poor roof, it will pay to get the best, and save on renewals and upkeep. You can't tell the quality of roll roofing by its appearance, or by feeling of it; your only safety is in the label. Be sure it is CERTAIN-TEED.
